THE ONE-LINE VERDICT

Brazil has gone from the world's newest large regulated online market (SPA-reported GGR of R$36.96bn (~$7.25bn) in 2025, 84 licensees and 193 brands by mid-2026) to a nationwide prohibition in 21 months: Provisional Measure 1.394/2026 barred deposits from 25 Sep 2026, took every site offline on 6 Oct and extinguished all authorisations on 25 Oct with no refund of the R$30m (~$5.9m) licence fees. The ban's permanence now rests on a Congress that had not even seated the MP committee as of 4 Nov, an STF rapporteur (Fux) who has publicly said he thinks bets should be banned, and a president re-elected on 25 Oct who is campaigning for the prohibition to hold. For B2Tech there is no lawful addressable market today; this is a binary watch-list jurisdiction until at least Q1 2027.

1 EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

- The market has been prohibited, not reformed. MP 1.394/2026 (DOU Extra A, 25 Sep 2026) bans the exploitation, offer, intermediation and advertising of fixed-odds lotteries — sports betting and online games — in physical and virtual environments, explicitly including offshore operators targeting people in Brazil and state/DF concessions. Only other lottery modalities (Caixa's federal lotteries) are carved out.
- The shutdown was executed in 30 days. New deposits were barred from 25 Sep; voluntary withdrawals closed 23:59 on 5 Oct; sites and apps (including app-store listings) went dark on 6 Oct; operators reported residual balances by CPF to banks on 6–8 Oct; banks refunded 9–14 Oct; Caixa Econômica Federal took over unresolved refunds from 15 Oct; all authorisations were extinguished on 25 Oct 'for reasons of public interest' with no refund of outorgas and no indemnity.
- Pre-ban, Brazil was a ~R$40bn-a-year GGR market. The SPA's Panorama Periódico reports FY2025 GGR of R$36,959,783,380 (~$7.25bn): R$17.4bn (~$3.41bn) in H1 and an implied R$19.56bn (~$3.84bn) in H2 (+12.4% HoH). H1-2026 GGR was R$20.07bn (~$3.94bn) on SPA data released via access-to-information requests (+15.3% YoY), or R$20.28bn (~$3.98bn, +6.2%) on brmkt.co's later SIGAP extraction, which also restates FY2025 to R$40.69bn (~$7.98bn). We anchor on the regulator's published figures and flag the ~R$3.7bn FY2025 gap.
- Momentum was already fading into the ban. Monthly GGR fell from R$4.29bn (~$0.84bn) in Jan-2026 to R$3.50bn (~$0.69bn) in June (-18.5%); deposits fell 30% over the same window (R$18.65bn → R$13.06bn) and 12.4% YoY for the half (R$88.48bn (~$17.35bn) vs R$100.99bn). Deposits falling faster than GGR lifted implied hold from 18.9% to 22.9% — consistent with a casino-heavy mix and the statutory ban on sign-up bonuses.
- The market is effectively 100% online. All regulated fixed-odds revenue runs through .bet.br digital platforms; retail fixed-odds was negligible and Caixa's lottery network sits outside this regime (and outside the ban). Mobile accounted for ~63% of Brazilian web traffic in Sep 2026 (GR8_TECH).
- Participation was mass-market. 17.7m unique CPFs bet in H1-2025, 25.2m across FY2025 (SPA) and 30.4m in H1-2026 (BNLData). Implied annual GGR per bettor was R$1,467 (~$288) in 2025; 68.5% of H1-2026 bettors were male and roughly four in ten were under 30; 44.4% used a single operator and 27.8% used four or more (Q1-2026).
- Licensing regime (Law 14.790/2023, SPA/MF) — now void. Federal authorisation cost R$30m (~$5.9m) for up to three brands over five years; 78 companies/182 brands were live in mid-2025, 79 companies at Dec-2025 and 84 companies/193 brands by H1-2026. Roughly R$2.5bn (~$0.49bn) of outorgas has been rendered worthless with no compensation; pending applications were voided and new grants are barred.
- Tax regime — base was GGR. Operators paid a 12% statutory contribution on GGR (R$4.53bn (~$0.89bn) in 2025; R$2.49bn (~$0.49bn) in H1-2026, +16%), a monthly supervision fee (R$95.5m (~$18.7m) in 2025) and ordinary corporate taxes; bettors paid 15% income tax on net prizes. Total federal collection from the sector was R$9.95bn (~$1.95bn) in 2025 (~27% of GGR) and R$7.3bn (~$1.43bn) in H1-2026 (+92% YoY, secondary source).
- The Treasury is knowingly forgoing revenue. The MP's own exposição de motivos books revenue losses of R$1.541bn (~$0.30bn) in 2026, R$5.150bn (~$1.01bn) in 2027 and R$5.330bn (~$1.05bn) in 2028, plus R$268.8m (~$52.7m) of supervision-fee losses over three years — i.e., the government is budgeting for prohibition to persist through 2028.
- Payments have been weaponised. Banks, payment institutions and Pix participants are barred from processing betting transactions; the Central Bank must build an electronic system to reject and return betting-related instant payments. Pre-ban, SPA rules already restricted funding to Pix/TED/debit from bettor-named accounts (no credit cards, no crypto), and an STF injunction (Fux, 13 Nov 2024) barred Bolsa Família/BPC funds.
- Advertising and sponsorship are fully prohibited. All marketing and sponsorship had to be removed by 5 Oct 2026; non-compliant advertising is 'abusive' under the Consumer Code; internet platforms and app stores must proactively block betting content, with fines of up to 10% of Brazilian group revenue or R$10–1,000 (~$2–196) per registered user capped at R$50m (~$9.8m). Every Série A club had a master sponsor in 2025, mostly bets; ~US$200m of football sponsorship is at risk and Flamengo alone cited ~R$45m (~$8.8m) of R$290m (~$57m) revenue.

- Enforcement is being scaled up, not down. In the two weeks to 9 Oct authorities submitted 16,627 gambling sites for blocking and 3,691 social/messaging profiles for removal, versus >25,000 sites blocked in all of 2025. Anatel distributes blocking orders to ISPs, CGI.br handles .br domains, and a Casa Civil-chaired Interinstitutional Committee coordinates PF, Receita Federal and Coaf.
- The illegal market was already large. Research cited by GR8_TECH found three in four Brazilian bettors used unauthorised sites at least once in 2025; the SPA logged 132 enforcement proceedings against licensees in 2025 (80 heading to penalties) and >217k self-exclusions on its centralised platform.
- Congress has not moved. The MP's joint committee was designated on 30 Sep but remained 'awaiting installation' with no chair or rapporteur on 4 Nov; 99 amendments (5 withdrawn) were filed by 13 Oct; the urgency regime locks the floor agenda from 9 Nov; the initial validity window ends 23 Nov 2026, extendable 60 days (nominally ~23 Jan 2027, with the recess likely pushing the practical deadline into Feb 2027). If it lapses unconverted the prohibition falls — but licences have already been extinguished.
- The STF is the other gate — and the rapporteur leans pro-ban. ADI 8.027 (ANJL) seeks suspension of the MP; Justice Fux held a 10-hour public hearing with 28 entities on 3 Nov 2026, at which the AGU argued the regulated model had failed, the Health Minister cited a 15x higher suicide risk among e-bettors, clubs and the CBF asked for a gradual transition, and Fux said his perception is that online bets should be banned. No ruling has been issued.
- Politics cut against re-opening. The MP was issued nine days before the first round, when Quaest had Flávio Bolsonaro at 42%; Lula won the 25 Oct run-off with 51.79% of valid votes and on 3 Nov urged civil society to 'pressure' for the ban to stay. The opposition's line — distinguishing online casinos from sports betting — is the only visible compromise space. Senate e-Cidadania polling ran ~199k for vs 70.6k against (28 Sep).
- Read-through for B2Tech: no lawful route exists today. Brazil has demonstrated regulatory expropriation without compensation; any grey-market play faces Pix rejection, CDC liability, platform de-listing and PF/Coaf exposure. Treat Brazil as a scenario-driven watch-list market with a binary outcome by Q1 2027; redeploy Portuguese-language product and LatAm capacity elsewhere, and only re-engage if Congress rebuilds a (likely sports-only, ad-restricted) regime with fresh licensing.
- Data confidence is MEDIUM. FY2025 and H1-2025 figures are regulator-published; H1-2026 figures come from SPA data released via LAI and a consultancy's SIGAP extraction that disagree by 1%; no GGR split by sports vs casino is published; market shares are not disclosed by the SPA.

A ~R$40bn annualised GGR market with 30m bettors was growing double-digit on the regulator's series but decelerating month by month before it was switched off.

2025 MARKET SIZE

A ~R$40bn annualised GGR market with 30m bettors was growing double-digit on the regulator's series but decelerating month by month before being switched off.

- Market opened 1 January 2025 under Law 14.790/2023; SPA licenses and supervises, operators report daily through SIGAP.
- SPA Panorama Periódico puts 2025 GGR at R$36,959,783,380 (~$7.25bn): R$17.4bn (~$3.41bn) in H1, implied R$19.56bn (~$3.84bn) in H2, +12.4% half-on-half.
- GGR is stakes less prizes, gross of the 12% levy and corporate tax; SPA publishes no sports-versus-casino split, so mix is inferred from surveys.

H1-2026 CONFLICTING SERIES

Two H1-2026 series disagree: BNLData shows R$20.07bn (~$3.94bn), +15.3%; brmkt.co shows R$20.28bn (~$3.98bn), +6.2% on a restated base.

- Regulator has released no comparable mid-year Panorama for 2026.
- brmkt.co restates H1-2025 to R$19.09bn and FY2025 to R$40.69bn (~$7.98bn); the ~R$3.7bn FY2025 gap most plausibly reflects late or corrected filings.
- We anchor on the regulator's published numbers and treat the consultancy series as the better guide to trend.

TREND INTO BAN

Monthly GGR fell 18.5% from R$4.29bn (~$0.84bn) in January 2026 to R$3.50bn (~$0.69bn) in June; deposits dropped 30%.

- Deposits fell from R$18.65bn (~$3.66bn) to R$13.06bn (~$2.56bn) over the same months.
- H1-2026 deposits of R$88.48bn (~$17.35bn) were 12.4% below H1-2025's R$100.99bn (~$19.8bn) while GGR rose, lifting implied hold from 18.9% to 22.9%.
- Rising hold on falling deposits is the signature of a casino-weighted mix and the statutory sign-up bonus prohibition.
- H1-2026 average monthly run-rate: R$3.38bn (~$0.66bn) GGR on R$14.7bn (~$2.9bn) deposits.

BETTOR BASE AND PRODUCT MIX

Participation was mass-market and young: 17.7m unique CPFs bet in H1-2025, 25.2m across 2025 and 30.4m in H1-2026.

- Implied GGR per bettor R$1,467 (~$288) for 2025 and R$660 (~$129) for H1-2026; the 30.4m figure is a different extraction, not strictly comparable.
- Q1-2026: 44.4% of bettors used a single operator, 27.8% four or more; 68.5% of H1-2026 bettors were men, roughly four in ten under 30.
- GR8_TECH surveys: traditional sports draw 70% of bettors, esports 40%; slots 50% of casino preferences, crash/instant games 25%, live dealer 24%.
- Fortune-themed slots (the 'tigrinho' Lula cited), Aviator, Mines and Plinko are the recognisable favourites; mobile was roughly 63% of Brazilian web traffic in September 2026.

UNREGULATED LEAKAGE

Three in four Brazilian bettors used unauthorised sites at least once in 2025, despite more than 25,000 illegal domains blocked by SPA/Anatel.

- Leakage plus 132 SPA enforcement proceedings against licensees underpinned the government's argument that Law 14.790's controls were insufficient.
- It is also the core of the industry's counter-argument that prohibition hands the whole R$40bn to the black market.

CONCLUSION FOR B2TECH

The legal addressable market is zero from 6 October 2026; B2Tech should not route product into Brazil in any form while the MP is in force.

- The MP's payment, advertising and platform provisions make offshore service of Brazilian customers operationally difficult and legally hazardous.
- Demand that produced R$20bn of GGR in a half-year has been pushed to crypto-funded and intermediated-Pix offshore sites.

4 DEEP-DIVE — LICENSING & TAX REGIME — AND ITS EXTINCTION UNDER MP 1.394/2026

A R$30m, five-year, 12%-of-GGR regime was expropriated without compensation; the Treasury has booked a R$5bn-a-year revenue loss to do it.

PRE-BAN LICENSING FRAMEWORK

A R$30m (~$5.9m), five-year federal authorisation covering up to three brands supported 84 companies and 193 brands by H1-2026, ~R$2.5bn (~$0.49bn) of outorga capital.

- Framework from Law 13.756/2018 and Law 14.790/2023; operators had to be Brazilian-incorporated, use .bet.br domains, report via SIGAP and pay a monthly supervision fee.
- SPA ordinances covered responsible gambling, advertising and payments: no sign-up bonuses, no credit-card or crypto funding.
- Licensees grew from 78 companies/182 brands mid-2025 to 79 companies at December 2025 and 84 companies/193 brands by H1-2026.

TAX BASE

Total federal collection attributed to the sector was R$9.95bn (~$1.95bn) in 2025, about 27% of GGR, and R$7.3bn (~$1.43bn) in H1-2026.

- 12% statutory GGR contribution raised R$4.53bn (~$0.89bn) in 2025 and R$2.49bn (~$0.49bn) in H1-2026; supervision fee R$95.5m (~$18.7m) in 2025.
- Operators also paid ordinary IRPJ/CSLL/PIS/COFINS/ISS; bettors paid 15% income tax on net prizes.
- H1-2026 near-doubling suggests corporate-tax instalments and prize-tax withholding were catching up with the GGR base.
- A 2025 attempt to lift the levy from 12% to 18% did not become law [prior knowledge; not re-verified].

MP 1.394/2026 PROVISIONS

The MP does not alter rates; it abolishes the activity and extinguishes all authorisations 30 days after publication (25 Oct) without refund or indemnity.

- Prohibits exploitation, offer, intermediation and advertising of fixed-odds lotteries nationwide, including foreign-domiciled agents and state/DF concessions.
- New deposits barred from 25 Sep; platforms offline (including app stores) from 6 Oct; open bets unsettled ten days after publication voided with full stake refunds.
- Extinction is 'for reasons of public interest'; pending applications voided and new concessions, permits or authorisations barred.
- Non-compliance with refund mechanics carries a daily fine of R$200,000 (~$39k).

SURVIVING OBLIGATIONS

Regulatory, tax, financial, AML/CFT, responsible-gambling and sports-integrity duties for the authorised period remain enforceable after licences die.

- Bettor, bet, payment and prize records must be retained for at least five years.
- Operators must transmit via SIGAP full data on users, bets, deposits, withdrawals, prizes, residual balances, refunds and revenues earned while licensed.
- The SPA remains the counterparty for audits and penalties even though it no longer licenses anything.

FISCAL COST

The Treasury has booked lost revenue of R$1.541bn (~$0.30bn) in 2026, R$5.150bn (~$1.01bn) in 2027 and R$5.330bn (~$1.05bn) in 2028.

- Supervision-fee losses of R$38.4m (~$7.5m) in Sep–Dec 2026 and R$115.2m (~$22.6m) in each of the following two years.
- 2027–28 figures sit well below the R$9.95bn collected in 2025, indicating the counterfactual mostly counts the 12% levy and prize tax, or already modelled a shrinking market.
- Stated justification is public health, household indebtedness (net transfers from families to platforms in 2025 put at 'tens of billions of reais') and organised crime links.

SOVEREIGN-REGULATORY RISK LESSON

Brazil has shown a five-year authorisation can be cancelled in 30 days by provisional measure with no compensation, before Congress votes.

- Any future re-entry should avoid outorga-heavy, front-loaded structures and favour asset-light B2B exposure.
- Constitutional litigation over 'relevance and urgency' and acquired rights (ADI 8.027) is the test case for whether licence investments in Brazil are ever recoverable.

Advertising & sponsorship	Permitted under SPA ordinance; no sign-up bonuses; no targeting minors (STF 2024)	Total ban incl. sponsorship; removal by 5 Oct; 'abusive' under Consumer Code; counter-advertising sanctions
Internet platforms / app stores	Notice-and-takedown for illegal sites	Duty to prevent and remove; fines up to 10% of Brazil group revenue, or R$10–1,000 (~$2–196)/user capped R$50m (~$9.8m); suspension possible
Validity	Law of Congress	Provisional measure: 60 days to 23 Nov 2026, +60 days if extended; lapses if not converted

5 DEEP-DIVE — LEGISLATIVE, JUDICIAL & POLITICAL PATH (CONGRESS, STF, PLANALTO)

Three gates — a dormant Congress committee, an STF rapporteur signalling support for the ban, and a re-elected president campaigning to keep it — all currently point to prohibition holding.

CONGRESSIONAL TIMETABLE

The MP must be converted within 60 days, extendable once; deliberation runs 25 Sep to 23 Nov 2026, possibly slipping to February 2027.

- Possible extension to roughly 23 Jan 2027; constitutional count suspends during December–February recess.
- From 9 Nov the MP enters urgency regime and locks the floor agenda of the house holding it.
- Joint committee designated 30 Sep, membership published 1 Oct, but as of 4 Nov still 'awaiting installation' with no president, rapporteur or meetings.
- Ninety-nine amendments filed by the extended 13 Oct deadline (five later withdrawn); the Pariente Advisory read that the regime will be written in committee is the right frame.

LAPSE VERSUS REJECTION

A lapse does not restore the market; it creates a licensing vacuum since every authorisation has already been extinguished and outorgas forfeited.

- If the MP lapses, the Law 14.790 regime technically revives, but Congress would normally issue a legislative decree and absent that the acts stand.
- The SPA would have to run a new authorisation round under whatever rules survive.
- Floor rejection would be a direct political defeat for a just re-elected president; committee inertia is better read as waiting for the STF and post-election realignment.

STF TRACK

ADI 8.027, filed by ANJL, seeks immediate suspension and unconstitutionality; rapporteur Justice Luiz Fux has signalled support for a ban, with no injunction granted.

- Fux granted the 13 Nov 2024 injunction in ADIs 7.721/7.723 barring Bolsa Família and BPC benefits for betting and advertising aimed at children.
- Public hearing on 3 Nov 2026: 28 entities, 34 speakers, roughly ten hours, opened by ten football clubs.
- AGU argued prior regulation proved insufficient; Health Minister cited a 15-times higher suicide risk among electronic bettors.
- Flamengo cited ~R$45m (~$8.8m) of R$290m (~$57m) revenue at risk; industry warned of job losses, match-fixing and black-market growth. No judgment date set.

> "his own perception is that online bets should be banned in Brazil" — Justice Luiz Fux

POLITICAL CONTEXT

Lula signed the MP on 25 Sep, nine days before the first round, and won the 25 Oct run-off with 51.79% of valid votes.

- A 21 Sep Quaest poll put Flávio Bolsonaro at 42%; the ban joined a Bolsa Família increase and a new Desenrola debt programme as late-campaign measures.
- Senate e-Cidadania polling ran roughly 199,000 in favour versus 70,600 against within three days of publication.
- Opposition critique centred on use of a provisional measure; Flávio Bolsonaro distinguished online casinos from sports betting, the clearest marker of a possible compromise.
- Polymarket has been blocked in Brazil since April even as it handled ~US$180m of wagers on the Brazilian election from abroad.

> "cannot allow the continuation of the bets" — Lula

SCENARIO PROBABILITIES

Probabilities are not symmetric: conversion or lapse-plus-replacement bill both leave prohibition in place through 2027; judicial suspension is least likely.

- Conversion may carry amendments on club contracts, refund mechanics and enforcement.
- A committee rewrite creating a narrower sports-only regime with casino banned, advertising curbed and deposit limits is plausible but not operational before late 2027.
- A judicial suspension by the rapporteur looks the least likely path after 3 Nov.

6 DEEP-DIVE — PAYMENTS, ENFORCEMENT & RESPONSIBLE GAMBLING

Pix — the rail that made Brazil scale — is now the primary enforcement instrument, backed by platform liability and a cross-agency blocking machine.

PIX FOUNDATION

Pix let 30 million CPFs deposit R$88.48bn (~$17.35bn) in six months, about R$14.7bn (~$2.9bn) a month, through identifiable Brazilian accounts.

- Pre-ban rules confined funding to Pix, TED and debit from accounts in the bettor's own name; credit cards and crypto prohibited; segregated accounts required.
- In November 2024 Justice Fux ordered the government to stop Bolsa Família and BPC funds being used for bets.
- These design choices are what now make the shutdown enforceable.

PAYMENT BLOCKING

The MP bars banks, payment institutions and instant-payment schemes from processing betting transactions, except flows to wind down and refund players.

- The Central Bank must build an electronic system letting institutions reject betting-related transfers in real time and return funds interbank.
- Refunds of unclaimed balances ran through banks 9–14 Oct; Caixa Econômica Federal acts as refund-of-last-resort from 15 Oct under Finance Ministry supervision.
- GR8_TECH flags the gap: offshore operators use intermediated Pix (gateways, nominee accounts) and crypto on-ramps without betting identifiers.
- Expect the BCB system and Coaf data-sharing to target those intermediaries, and financial institutions to over-comply.

BLOCKING AND PLATFORM LIABILITY

16,627 sites were submitted for blocking and 3,691 profiles flagged between 25 Sep and 9 Oct, nearly two-thirds of 2025's >25,000 blocked domains.

- Finance and Justice ministries may order blocking or redirection; Anatel distributes orders to ISPs, CGI.br handles .br domains.
- A Casa Civil-coordinated Interinstitutional Committee runs prevention, supervision and repression, with Federal Police, Receita Federal and Coaf sharing data.
- Internet application providers must proactively remove betting content including third-party content; app stores and operating systems must block prohibited products.
- Sanctions run from warnings to fines of up to 10% of Brazilian group revenue (or R$10–1,000 (~$2–196) per registered user, capped at R$50m (~$9.8m)), daily fines and suspension.

RESPONSIBLE GAMBLING

The regulated regime built real infrastructure in 18 months, including more than 217,000 self-exclusions by end-2025, now moot for licensed operators.

- Mandatory self-limits, risk-behaviour monitoring, a consumer-education course, bans on sign-up bonuses and advertising to minors.
- 132 supervisory proceedings against licensees in 2025, of which 80 were heading to penalties.
- Government told the STF none of this sufficed; industry says the ban dismantles the only tools that existed; the self-exclusion register has no legal operator population to bind.

IMPLICATION FOR B2TECH

Brazil's payments environment is now actively hostile and legally weaponised, a risk profile incompatible with a licensed B2B/B2C group's compliance posture.

- Offshore service would require routing around Pix controls the Central Bank is being instructed to tighten.
- It would expose any Brazilian payment partner to sanction and place brand and affiliates inside the Consumer Code, CDC counter-advertising and PF/Coaf perimeter.

7 DEEP-DIVE — OPERATOR LANDSCAPE, SPONSORSHIP FALLOUT & EXEMPT VERTICALS

> 84 licensees and 193 brands have been written to zero, Brazilian football has lost its dominant sponsor category, and only Caixa's lotteries remain untouched.

LICENSEE BASE

84 authorised companies operating 193 brands by H1-2026 have been written to zero; leader shares are n/a as SPA publishes no operator-level GGR.

- Up from 77 companies and 159 brands a year earlier and 79 companies at December 2025.
- Groups commonly cited pre-ban: Betano (Kaizen), bet365, Superbet, Betnacional (Flutter/NSX), Esportes da Sorte, Sportingbet (Entain) [prior knowledge, shares unverified].
- 27.8% of Q1-2026 bettors used four or more operators, which with the bonus ban points to competition on product and odds rather than acquisition spend.

SUNK CAPITAL

The 84 licensees paid on the order of R$2.5bn (~$0.49bn) in outorgas at R$30m (~$5.9m) each, all forfeited without refund or indemnity.

- Also lost: Brazilian corporate structures, local payment integrations, SIGAP reporting stacks and marketing commitments.
- Deloitte's Malta practice says the ban is an impairment-testing trigger for year-end reporting; GR8_TECH notes Brazil-based growth forecasts and sponsorship budgets have been cut.
- ADI 8.027 on acquired rights is the only route to recovery, and the rapporteur's remarks on 3 Nov were not encouraging.

FOOTBALL SPONSORSHIP

Roughly US$200m of football sponsorship was wiped out, with all betting signage removed by 5 Oct 2026.

- In 2025 every Série A club had a master sponsor and betting operators were the central investors in Brazilian football.
- Flamengo told the STF ~R$45m (~$8.8m) of its R$290m (~$57m) annual revenue was tied to betting sponsors and pitch-side advertising.
- Flamengo, Botafogo, Fluminense, Grêmio, Cruzeiro and others branded the measure 'the end of Brazilian football'.
- Clubs sought an injunction in early October and asked for a gradual transition and contract security, the most likely locus of any Congressional amendment.

EXEMPT VERTICALS

Only Caixa's federal lotteries remain untouched, expressly exempt as 'other lottery modalities'; their 2025–26 sales are n/a.

- State and Federal District fixed-odds concessions (Loterj-style, already territorially constrained by the STF in early 2025) are swept into the prohibition.
- PL 2.234/2022 on land-based casinos, bingo and jogo do bicho has not been voted by the Senate plenary and has no realistic prospect [prior knowledge; unverified].
- Pari-mutuel horse-race betting is governed by separate legislation and not referenced in the MP summaries; status n/a.

B2TECH READ-THROUGH

Brazil-heavy incumbents are impaired and distracted, marginally improving competitive conditions elsewhere in LatAm as their capital is redeployed.

- If Brazil re-opens under a narrower regime, the field is reset: outorgas gone, brands dark, favouring entrants with clean capital and no legacy litigation.
- The earliest such window is late 2027, and only if the committee rewrite scenario materialises.

8 HIGHLIGHTS & LOWLIGHTS

▲ HIGHLIGHTS

- Proven demand at scale: 30.4m bettors and a ~R$40bn (~$7.8bn) annualised GGR run-rate make Brazil the largest latent pool in LatAm; if a regime is rebuilt, day-one volume exists without market-making spend. structural
- A compromise space is visible: the opposition and clubs distinguish sports betting from online casino, 99 amendments are on file, and the committee rewrite is where a narrower (sports-only, ad-restricted) regime could emerge in 2027–28. early
- Field reset: all outorgas are forfeited and brands dark, so any re-licensing round would not favour incumbents' sunk capital; a clean entrant with asset-light B2B exposure could compete on equal footing. mixed
- Regulatory plumbing already exists — SIGAP reporting, .bet.br domains, the centralised self-exclusion register, Pix KYC rails — so operational time-to-market on any re-opening would be months, not years. structural
- Bonus-free, high-hold economics: implied hold rose to 22.9% in H1-2026 on a statutory sign-up-bonus ban, a template that would likely carry into any successor regime and favours product-led operators. structural
- Capacity redeployment: impaired Brazil-heavy incumbents are pulling marketing and capital toward Argentina, Peru, Colombia and Mexico; Portuguese-language product can be redirected to Portugal and Lusophone Africa. one-off

▼ LOWLIGHTS

- Zero legal addressable market: every authorisation was extinguished on 25 Oct 2026 and sites have been offline since 6 Oct; there is no lawful way to serve Brazilian customers today. structural
- Expropriation without compensation: ~R$2.5bn (~$0.49bn) of five-year outorgas were cancelled by provisional measure with no refund or indemnity — a precedent that must be priced into any future Brazilian licence. governance
- Political alignment against the industry: a re-elected president publicly campaigning for the ban, an AGU and Health Ministry framing it as public health, and an STF rapporteur who said bets should be banned. structural
- The fiscal argument has been discounted: the Treasury has booked R$5.15bn (~$1.01bn) of lost 2027 revenue in the MP itself, so tax-yield lobbying has little traction. structural
- Payment rails weaponised: Pix rejection, bank/PSP prohibition, a BCB real-time return system and platform fines up to 10% of Brazil revenue make grey-market service of Brazil an AML/criminal exposure, not a commercial option. structural
- Legal vacuum risk even on lapse: if the MP expires unconverted (~Jan/Feb 2027), licences do not revive; a new authorisation round under uncertain rules would be needed, and litigation over acquired rights could run for years. watch
- Data opacity: the SPA has not published a 2026 Panorama; H1-2026 series disagree by ~1% and FY2025 by ~R$3.7bn; no sports/casino split or operator shares exist to size a sports-only successor market. watch

9 FORECAST & OUTLOOK

Guidance bridge. The 'bridge' for Brazil is from a ~R$40bn (~$7.8bn) annualised regulated GGR run-rate (H1-2026: R$20.07–20.28bn) to zero from 6 Oct 2026, with the federal take moving from R$9.95bn (~$1.95bn) in 2025 to a government-booked loss of R$1.54bn in 2026 and R$5.15bn (~$1.01bn) in 2027. The moving parts are not market variables but institutional ones: whether the joint committee is installed and what its rapporteur writes before 23 Nov 2026 (or the ~Jan/Feb 2027 extension); whether Justice Fux rules on ADI 8.027 and in which direction after a hearing at which he voiced support for prohibition; and whether a re-elected Lula government, which issued the MP as a campaign measure, is willing to trade a transition for the clubs' sponsorship contracts.

REGULATED GGR RUN-RATE	FEDERAL TAKE FROM SECTOR	LICENSED OPERATORS / BRANDS	DECISION WINDOW
from 6 Oct 2026 (sites offline); H1-26 was R$20.07bn (~$3.94bn)	~$1.95bn actual vs ~$1.01bn booked loss; 12% GGR levy ceases	authorisations extinguished 25 Oct 2026; ~R$2.5bn outorgas forfeited	committee not installed as of 4 Nov; STF ADI 8.027 undated

Independent view. Our independent view is that prohibition holds through 2027 in the base case (we estimate ~55–60% probability) — either by conversion with amendments (transition relief for club contracts, refund and enforcement tweaks) or by a lapse followed by a replacement bill, since the Executive has already absorbed the fiscal cost and the STF rapporteur has signalled sympathy. The main alternative (~30%) is a committee rewrite that re-creates a narrower regulated regime from 2027–28: sports betting only, online casino prohibited, advertising and sponsorship tightly capped, deposit limits and welfare-fund blocks retained, and a fresh licensing round — plausible because the opposition and clubs have framed the debate as casino-versus-sports and because 99 amendments exist to carry it. Judicial suspension is the tail (~10–15%). If a sports-only market re-opened, we would size it at R$12–18bn (~$2.4–3.5bn) of annual GGR [analyst estimate], on the assumption that casino was more than half of 2025–26 GGR (not published; inferred from rising hold and survey mix), with higher hold and lower marketing intensity than the 2025 market. Revenue direction for any Brazil-exposed operator: zero in 2027 base case; margin/leverage: impairments of licences and intangibles in FY2026 accounts, with outorga recovery dependent on ADI 8.027. For B2Tech: no entry; keep a compliance-grade monitoring file; reassess only on committee installation with a rapporteur text that preserves a licensed sportsbook.

What to watch next quarter:

- Installation of the MP 1.394 joint committee, identity of the rapporteur, and whether the committee text preserves any licensed activity (sports-only) or merely softens wind-down terms — before 23 Nov 2026 or the ~Jan/Feb 2027 extension.
- Any ruling by Justice Fux on ADI 8.027 (ANJL) — injunction, denial, or referral to the full bench — and whether the Court addresses acquired rights to the R$30m outorgas.
- Whether the MP lapses unconverted; if so, the form of the Congressional legislative decree governing acts taken while it was in force and any new government bill or MP.
- Central Bank implementation of the mandated Pix rejection/return system and its targeting of intermediated-Pix gateways and crypto on-ramps used by offshore sites; enforcement actions against payment intermediaries.
- Monthly blocking statistics from the Interinstitutional Committee / Anatel (16,627 sites in the first two weeks) and first platform fines under the 10%-of-revenue regime.
- Publication by the SPA of final 2026 SIGAP data (Jan–Sep) to reconcile the FY2025 (R$36.96bn vs R$40.69bn) and H1-2026 (R$20.07bn vs R$20.28bn) discrepancies and, ideally, a sports/casino GGR split.
- Club-sponsorship settlements and whether Congress inserts a contract-transition clause; CBF/Série A commercial revenue disclosures for 2026–27.
- Listed-operator FY2026 disclosures (impairments, Brazil revenue exposure) and any announced exits or re-entry conditions.

DATA CONFIDENCE: MEDIUM FX: USD/BRL ~5.10, implied by Sigma World's 23 Sep 2026 conversions (R$20.28bn = $3.98bn); a direct BCB PTAX lookup was not possible within this research cycle, so USD figures are approximations (~). FY2025 and H1-2025 figures are regulator-published (SPA Panorama Periódico; SPA H1-2025 presentation). H1-2026 GGR (R$20.07bn) is SPA data released via LAI and published by BNLData/Tripletrad; the brmkt.co SIGAP series (R$20.28bn H1-26; R$40.69bn FY25) is a secondary extraction and disagrees with the SPA's published FY2025 figure by ~R$3.7bn. H1-2025/H1-2026 total federal collection (R$3.8bn/R$7.3bn) is from a secondary source and was not verified against Receita Federal tables. The MP's full article text (Planalto) could not be fetched; provisions are taken from the Agência Senado and Finance Ministry summaries. No sports/casino GGR split, operator market shares, Caixa lottery figures or horse-racing data could be verified (n/a).
